NOW OF THE TRUST

Captain Ed Howard's Gigantic Boat Company Begins.

Marine Ways at Paducah Are a Part of the Combine—Extra Session of Congress.

A HANGING IN LOUISIANA

Louisville, Aug. 14—Official notification has been given all firms having dealings with the E. J. Howard boat building interests that the business hereafter will be conducted by the American Rivers Shipbuilding Co., with its home office in Jeffersonville, Ind. Bills are now being made out in the corporate name and checks are passing through the banks under that signature.

Capt. Ed J. Howard is president, Clyde J. Howard secretary and treasurer and James Howard purchasing agent.

The corporation owns boat building plants at Cincinnati, O., Madison, Ind., Jeffersonville, Ind., Paducah, Ky., and Mound City, Ill. The capital stock is given as $5,000,000.

THE POWERS CASE.

Georgetown, Ky., Aug. 14—The cross-examination of Henry Youtsey was resumed this morning. He was placed on the stand yesterday afternoon and for three hours rehearsed his former story. A new feature was in his statement in January, 1901, he signed an affidavit for Powers as to his innocence to present to the Republican judges of the court of appeals to secure from them a reversal of the life sentence given him (Powers). He said that at the time he signed that affidavit both Powers and himself knew it to be false, and that before he would consent to affix his signature to it he (Youtsey) required Powers to sign an agreement waiving the truth or falsity of it, and also agreeing to never let it become public. He produced the agreement in court with Powers' signature attached, and the affair created quite a sensation. Youtsey's wife has been for two years the innocent custodian of this document.

HANGED FOR MURDER.

New Orleans, Aug. 14—A. E. Batzon was today hanged at Lake Charles La., for the murder of six of the Earl family in February, 1902.

EXTRA SESSION OCT. 12.

Oyster Bay, Aug. 14—President Roosevelt has decided to call an extra session October 12 for financial legislation.

STAGE MANAGER RESIGNS

MR. FRANK JOHNSON TO RETURN TO MACON, GA.

Mr. Frank Johnson, the stage manager of the Kentucky, has resigned his position here and will leave tomorrow for Macon, Ga., to work. Mr. Johnson came here last season to take the Kentucky. He handled all the big shows with promptness and skill of a metropolitan stage manager and received many compliments from the traveling managers for his work and the work of his trained force of stage hands. Mr. Johnson previously worked at Macon and was made a very flattering offer from the manager of the opera-house there. Mr. English will have a stage manager here from the east who will take charge at the opening of the season, August 31.

Mr. Charles Emery left this morning for Louisville on business.

BIG CHIEF ELECTED

Mr. Ben Weille to Manage Red Men's Fall Festival.

Important Meeting Held Today—The Date Is October 5 to 11.

THE CONTRACT SIGNED TODAY

The Red Men's Amusement association has practically completed arrangements for its fall festival, and this morning a meeting of the board was held at the Rhodes-Burford establishment on North Fourth street, and the contract was awarded to the General Amusement Co. of Cincinnati said to be the largest carnival company in the United States. It is capitalized for $200,000 and Bostock, formerly in the Bostock-Ferari Co., which furnished the attractions for the Elks' carnival here two years ago, is now with this company and has one of his largest animal shows in it. There will be fourteen shows, with four specials and six free attractions. The agent, Mr. W. H. Reinhard, is in the city to complete arrangements for the coming of the company, and by night it is expected to have all the papers signed up.

The office of director-general was today changed into that of "big chief," and Mr. Ben Weille was chosen to fill it. The name of the affair will be the "Paducah Fall Festival," and the colors, selected today, are red and green. The date has been definitely fixed for the week of October 5-11. One of the features will be a stake, at which persons will be "tortured" if they do not

ARE TRYING IT AGAIN

Merchants of Mayfield Being Prosecuted Over Pale Drinks

The Pure Food Law Has Been Brought into Play—Paducah Chemists Figure.

PADUCAH MANUFACTURERS

Another raid is being made at Mayfield on the vendors of the non-intoxicating drinks that help make life endurable in the capital of Graves.

Not long ago an ordinance fixing the license at $1,000 a year was passed and soon declared unconstitutional.

The crusaders have now taken a new tack, and are trying to get at them through the pure food law.

Yesterday's Mayfield Messenger says:

"Warrants have been issued against several parties for the sale of the articles. One the 11th day of June last Mr. R. M. Allen, state food inspector under the pure food law, was in the city and bought and had bought samples of the various beverages as summer drinks for examination under the food law. These he had analyzed by Prof. J. O. LaBach, state chemist. The result of the analysis was submitted to Attorney Wallace and upon them he had the warrants issued.

"The first case tried in Judge Webb's court was against O. A. Jones for selling hop ale. Prof. LaBach testified that the bottle said to have been bought by Mr. Allen contained 4.56 per cent alcohol and was an alcoholic beverage.

"The defense introduced W. P. Mc-

Cartney, chemist from Paducah, who testified that a bottle of a similar liquid contained only 2.36 per cent alcohol. An affidavit from Dr. List of Paducah was read, which stated that a bottle tested by him contained absolutely no alcohol. The jury found the defendant not guilty.

"The next case against George Tilley for selling A. M. Laevision & Co.'s cream ale. Prof. LaBach testified that a bottle bought on the 11th day of June by Mr. Allen contained over 4 per cent alcohol, while McCarty and Dr. List stated that bottles examined by them contained less than 2 per cent alcohol. All the parties agreed that where liquid contains over 2 per cent it is alcohol beverage. Lee Wicker testified that George Tilley was working for him and that they had government license. The jury failed to agree and was discharged.

"Several cases were prosecuted here last June under the pure food law and Mr. Allen says that the result was good, that our merchants do not seem to want to violate the law, but were unadvised. He says that the law is more closely followed than it was before June and that all things that required labeling now bear labels."

Mr. Hovious Herring went to Memphis this morning on a visit.

GET LIFE SENTENCES

Jett and White Both Convicted at Cynthiana Today.

Jury Returned a Verdict Upon Conviction of Court at Cynthiana Today.

THE USUAL APPEAL IN ORDER

Cynthiana, Ky., Aug. 14—Both Curtis Jett and Tom White, who have been on trial here for over two weeks for the murder of Attorney Marcum at Jackson, Ky., were today found guilty of murder and sentenced to serve life terms in the penitentiary.

The verdict was a surprise, as it had been concluded that the jury would be unable to agree. The case was given to it day before yesterday and the final verdict was a compromise. While the jury was out yesterday afternoon Jett sat in the court room smoking a cigarette and chatting with his guards. White appeared more anxious than his partner.

Jett, in conversation with Deputy Sheriff Lail, laughed and said:

"By God! the rope hasn't growed yet that'll hang me."

White was more worried. He asked Deputy McKinley:

"What will that jury do?"

Mr. McKinley replied:

"I think you are in a bad fix."

"Well, before God! They'll not give me what they give Jett, will they?" White asked.

Mr. John Brooks and sister, Miss Ethel Brooks, will tomorrow return from St. Paul, Minn., where they have been visiting relatives.

THE TIN INDUSTRY

Much More Imported Now Than in Former Years.

It is Brought Often in Ore and Not All is Used For Tin Plate.

SOME GOVERNMENT FIGURES

Importations of pig tin into the United States in the past year were larger than in any preceding year. The statistics show that the importations of tin were 88 million pounds, valued at more than 28 million dollars. In 1890 the importations were 35 million pounds, valued at about 7 million dollars.

These figures of the year's importation of tin, and the growth in the importation since 1890, are especially interesting in view of the recent imposition of a duty on exportations of tin ore from the British colonies of the Malayan peninsula. The rapid growth in the use of tin in the United States, coupled with the fact that practically none of that article is produced in this country, suggested the importation of tin in the form of ore and the smelting of the ore and manufacture of the pig tin at home. A plant for this purpose has been erected in the United States, and the shipment of ore from the Malayan peninsula was about to begin when the department of commerce and labor received word through the reports of the United States consul at Straits Settlements that an export duty of $30 per picul (133 pounds) had been levied on tin ore exported; the purpose of this export tax on the ore being to prevent its exportation in the natural state, and to retain for the people of the Malayan states the profits of smelting.

Whether this will terminate the project of importing the ore into the United States for smelting cannot yet be told. The Malayan states now produce more than half of the tin which enters into the commerce of the world, their total shipments in 1901 being 50,000 tons, out of a total of 89,000 tons entering the markets of the world in that year.

It must not be supposed that all of the tin imported into the United States is used in the manufacture of tin plate though a large share of it is utilized in that industry. Prior to the beginning of the manufacture of tin plate there were considerable importations of tin, ranging from 20 to 30 million pounds per annum, and in 1890 it was 35 million pounds. The manufacture of tin plate practically began in 1891, the total production of that year being about 1,000 tons; by 1895 it was 113,000 tons; by 1900 it was 302,000 tons, and in 1902, 366,000 tons. Meantime the importation of pig tin grew from 35 million pounds in 1890 to 47 millions in 1895, 70 millions in 1900 and 88 millions in 1903—fiscal year just ended.

GOOD TRADER.

MR. CHARLES CLARK DEMONSTRATES THAT HE IS ALL RIGHT.

Mr. Charles Clark, the well known clerk at the postoffice, traded horses several days ago with Herbert Hawkins, the commission merchant, and was to get Mr. Hawkins' black horse and $100 for his own sorrel horse. Hawkins declined to pay over the $100 after the trade, claiming it was no trade, and secured a writ of delivery for his black horse, but it was proven at the trial that the trade was made and Clerk Clark was awarded the black horse formerly owned by Mr. Hawkins. He had also sued in Justice Barber's court for the $100 "boot," and yesterday the affair was settled by Mr. Hawkins turning over to Mr. Clark the sorrel horse in lieu of the $100, making Mr. Clark owner of both horses and Mr. Hawkins' horse for $75. The suit he brought against Hawkins for $100 in Justice Barber's court has been dismissed.

FLYING STEEL

Close Call of Workmen at the I. C. Shops.

Pulley Wheels Burst and Send Steel in All Directions.

This morning Operator Brown of the big planing machine in the local I. C. woodworking shop, and several colored laborers, narrowly missed being seriously if not fatally injured while at work near the big machine. Several pulley wheels broke and flew to pieces, scattering flying steel in every direction. Mr. Brown narrowly missed being struck by a large piece of steel, and also did two laborers. The bits of steel landed against the ceiling and walls of the building with great force, but without doing any damage. The planer will be unable to run again until new pulleys have been made.

We beg to say Dr. G. B. Snigley takes pleasure in recommending Herbine." 50c bottle at DuBois, Kolb & Co.

THE LINES IN HIS PALM.

The fortune teller examined the lines in the young man's palm.
"You have a past that you seek to hide," she said, "and a future that you do not wish to know."
"Witch that you are!" he exclaimed. "How do you know that?"
"Because you have tried to fool me by changing the lines of your hand with a lead pencil, or something," she said, with a mocking laugh. —Chicago Tribune.

All Trains Will Soon Begin Carrying Mail.

It Will Mean the End of Strikes so Far as Railway Trains are Concerned.

PLAN SOON TO BE EFFECTIVE

Chicago, Aug. 14—A Washington telegram says: Postmaster General Payne has decided on an important step, which will practically put the railroads of the country under the protection of the United States government and prevent interference with interstate commerce by strikers. This will be accomplished by making every railroad train a mail train and by commissioning railroad conductors, baggage masters and other trainmen as employees of the United States postal service, and empowering them to handle mails.

Postmaster General Payne and Assistant Postmaster General Shallenberger have had the matter under consideration for several months. The agitation, however, which really led to the adoption of the new policy has been growing for several years, and, like so many other important steps adopted by the postoffice department of late years, is the result of the tremendous growth of the rural free delivery service. This service has resulted in more than quadrupling the circulation of newspapers throughout the country in the period of six years.

The postal officials declined to enter into an agreement whereby they would be responsible for mail not carried in closed pouches and handled by sworn employees. It has been the practice of publishers, however, to intrust bundles of papers to trainmen on trains which do not carry mail, with instructions to throw off the packages at certain points. This system has not been entirely satisfactory.

The government has now decided to assume the responsibility for the carriage and delivery of these newspapers and will commission and pay salaries to the trainmen over and above the compensation received for the regular work. In putting into effect this far-reaching policy each case where additional facilities are needed will be considered separately. When the request for additional mail train facilities is received at the department an employee of the railway mail service will be assigned to the case and will attend to the preliminaries of looking to the commissioning of trainmen as employees of the postal service and arranging the schedules.

Any train—passenger, local or freight—will be empowered to carry mails, and the United States will hold itself responsible for their delivery. This means that in case of a strike every train which carries these special mails will be just as much under the authority and protection of the federal government as through and local mail trains which run on a regular daily schedule, and when all arrangements have been made and the plans of the department put into effect, there will be few trains which are not either regular or "special" mail trains.

In case of interference with any of these specials during the time of strike or mob violence the United States must under the statutes afford it the same protection, by federal troops if necessary, that has been and will be given to the regular mail trains.

There are some preliminaries still to be arranged with the railroads, but there is not the slightest reason for doubt that the various systems will gladly avail themselves of the privilege extended to them for securing almost absolute immunity from mob violence by federal protection. The government will be permitted to settle upon the salary to be paid trainmen. At the coming session of congress Postmaster General Payne will ask for a special appropriation to pay the salaries of these special employees. Until such time, however, the trainmen employed by the government will be paid out of the general fund of the railway mail service.

HAPPY IN THE ASSURANCE.

She was going away. "Oh, John!" she sobbed. "J-ohn, are y-you quite sure y-you'll m-miss me?"
"Darling," replied her big husband, "I'll miss you as much as I do the morning train."
Thus assured she picked up her grip and with a sweet smile, started for the seashore. —Chicago News.

ALWAYS TIRED NEVER RESTED

To be tired out from hard work or bodily exercise is natural and rest is the remedy, but there is an exhaustion without physical exertion and a tired, never-rested feeling—a weariness without work that is unnatural and shows some serious disorder is threatening the health. One of the chief causes of that "Always-tired, never-rested condition" is impure blood and bad circulation. Unless the body is nourished with rich, pure blood there is lack of nervous force, the muscles become weak, the digestion impaired, and general disorder occurs throughout the system. Debility, insomnia, nervousness, indigestion, dyspepsia, loss of appetite, strength and energy, and the hundreds of little ailments we often have are due directly to a bad condition of the blood and circulation, and the quickest way to get rid of them is by purifying and building up the blood, and for this purpose no remedy equals S. S. S., which contains the best ingredients for cleansing the blood and toning up the system. It is a vegetable blood purifier and tonic combined, that enriches the blood, and through it the entire system is nourished and refreshing sleep comes to the tired, never-rested, body.

THE REPUBLICAN PLATFORM GIVEN IN FULL

The Republicans of Kentucky, in convention assembled, made the following declarations.

First—We declare for the right of every qualified citizen to a free ballot and a fair count, and the right of voters to an honest and orderly election in every precinct in this state, and to secure these rights and the restoration of political and legal equality we pledge ourselves to the enactment of such laws as will restore absolute electoral freedom.

Second—We denounce the odious political machine rule now dominant in Kentucky, which destroys freedom, fetters enterprise, excludes capital, handicaps industry, discourages education and enables self-perpetuating bodies of political adventurers to control public affairs for private benefit, and encourages and protects abuse, contempt, and bold violation of law. We appeal for an aroused public sentiment among all ranks of citizenship against continuation of these evils.

Third—We condemn the reign of Democratic party hate and proscription following the destruction under forms of law of political liberty and equality, and especially deplore the fact that in this day of machine domination, the courts of the state are appealed to, and have become too often the theater for the display of Democratic partisan activity and for the upholding of political wrong and outrage.

Fourth—We denounce assassination and lawlessness, whether in Serbia or Kentucky, as destructive of civilization and call upon the enlightened intelligence of the state, through its legislative, executive and judicial agencies, to employ remedies to re-establish order and punish crime within our borders.

We especially arraign the present state chief executive for so exercising the pardoning power as to subvert political and partisan purposes, with the certain effect of encouraging crime by virtually rendering criminals of Democratic political faith immune from punishment.

Fifth—We condemn the present administration in Kentucky for incompetency and grave impropriety in the conduct of public affairs, for preying upon and misappropriating public moneys, for laying tribute upon the legal pay of soldiers enlisted in the country's service, for the payment of unnecessary, unjust, exorbitant and illegal attorneys' fees, and we now demand such changes in the laws as will secure the state against similar wrongs in the future.

Sixth—The present state administration has increased taxation of the people without corresponding increase in public benefits, and we believe and declare that the rate of taxation could be reduced to forty-five cents, and that the revenue so produced, on present property valuations, will be adequate for all purposes of our government economically administered, and in addition a surplus therefrom could be accumulated in four years to build and pay for a statehouse suitable for public uses and commensurate with the dignity and wealth of the commonwealth.

Seventh—We denounce the present system of management of the charitable and penal institutions of the state as being obsolete, inhuman and a reproach to our civilization. We condemn the carelessness and cruelty shown to have been repeatedly practiced in our asylums, and demand the passage of laws that will place these institutions under nonpartisan management by which our helpless wards can be and will be protected against inhumanity and negligence and their condition improved by the substitution of trained and capable superintendents and assistants for the brutal, inexperienced and incompetent employees appointed to their places as political reward.

Eighth—We appeal to the united good citizenship of the state to aid us in re-establishing Kentucky, a Kentucky awakened, progressive and seeking the highest prosperity. Her commanding situation, her waterways, her resources and facilities for agriculture, manufacturing, mining and commerce, demand wise laws, incorruptible and impartial courts and competent and fearless executive officers.

Ninth—The Republicans now seek the co-operation and support of all good citizens, irrespective of past party connections, and pledge themselves in entering this campaign to restore to the state respect for law, the enforcement of law, honest and economical government should the people by their votes commit power to them.

Tenth—We congratulate the people of the United States and its new possessions upon the unparalleled prosperity achieved under national Republican policies that have maintained the public honor, fostered industry, stimulated enterprise, extended American commerce, strengthened American influence and ennobled citizenship by giving security of labor and capital alike, and insuring to every man who works a standard of living and an expectation worthy of American civilization and civic sovereignty. We stand for the continuance of existing Republican financial and tariff policies.

Eleventh—We express highest appreciation of the record that President Roosevelt has made in continuing the great work begun by William McKinley and in himself in dealing with the new problems that he has had to solve, in his handling of the Philippine question, in his firm management of the Venezuelan crisis; in his wise and courageous course with reference to the anthracite coal strike; in his honest efforts to secure justice to Cuba; in his zeal for the Panama canal; in his vigorous demand for official purity and honesty and punishment of the corrupt and dishonest; in his resolute stand against the closing of Chinese ports to our trade; in his success achieved by his practical efforts to enforce the law against unlawful combinations, and in the encouragement he has given to the laying of a cable across the Pacific, which brings us into closer touch with the Philippines than we were with the Louisiana Territory or with California when acquired. He has shown himself a strong executive, as he is an ideal citizen, and we heartily and enthusiastically are in favor of his nomination for the presidency in 1904.

PAPERS SIGNED

THE BERNHARD PROPERTY WILL NOW BE APPRAISED.

An agreement has been signed by Mayor Yeiser, for the city, and Mr. George Bernhard of West Broadway, agreeing to abide by the price fixed by appraisers on property owned by Mr. Bernhard and desired by the city for extending Fountain avenue. The city has tried to buy it, but without success, and has been "poking along" for many weeks. It finally offered, by authority of both boards, $900 for the property, and the solicitor had instructions to bring suit to condemn if the price was not accepted, but Mr. Bernhard held out, and finally, instead of condemning, the city agreed to allow appraisers, and the papers now signed make their decision binding on both. Mr. Wm. Bradshaw was selected by Mr. Bernhard and Mr. Alonzo Elliott by the city.

POLICY VALID.

GATLIN HEIRS WIN AN IMPORTANT SUIT AT MURRAY.

The Gatlin heirs won an important suit in the Calloway circuit court yesterday against the Provident Savings Life Insurance Co. for $10,000. The late Wm. Gatlin held a policy for this amount in the company at the time of his death, but the company contested on the grounds that the deceased, in making application for it, misrepresented the facts relative to his health, temperance, etc., and that he had also inserted the name of George Gatlin in addition to Gray Gatlin, without authority. The case was tried at Murray yesterday and resulted in a verdict for the plaintiffs. The insurance company will probably take an appeal.

MISSED HERSELF.

COLORED WOMAN UNABLE TO HIT HER OWN HEAD.

According to the report lodged at police headquarters, Lizzie Meyers is the name of a colored woman of near Twelfth and Clay streets who cannot hit herself in the head with a pistol. She had a quarrel with her lover yesterday afternoon late, it seems, and becoming despondent, fired a big pistol at her head and missed, the ball lodging in the ceiling. As it would be a sin to arrest such a bad marksman for shooting inside the city limits, no arrests were made.

CURED PARALYSIS.

W. S. Bailly, P. O. True, Texas, writes: "My wife had been suffering five years with paralysis in her arm. When I was persuaded to use Ball's Snow Liniment, which cured her all right. I have also used it for old sores, frost bites and skin eruptions. It does the work." 25c, 50c and $1 bottles at DuBois, Kolb & Co.

DAILY THOUGHT.
It is a mistake to be indifferent to small sins and mistakes.

THE WEATHER.
For Kentucky—Showers tonight except in extreme western portion, where it will be fair. Saturday showers.

"We understand that recently another party has gone into the whiskey business in town and has been soliciting business. It seems that this illegal business is flourishing and increasing in our town," say the Benton Tribune-Democrat. And this is one of those local option towns where no whiskey is sold!

A Philadelphia paper, in illustrating the large size (waist measure) of Congressman Ollie James of Kentucky, tells a story about his wife mistaking his belt for the trunk strap and using it as such. Now, it is a base libel on the congressman from the First Kentucky district to say he has a wife, because he is a confirmed bachelor, although doubtless his belt could be used for a trunk strap. Next thing some of these Eastern newspaper men will be saying "Big Ollie" has brains.

Convict Henry Yontsey is again regaling the world with his version—perhaps a new one—of the Goebel "conspiracy." As he has had plenty of spare time on his hands since the last trial, he will no doubt this time be able to tell a great many things he has "remembered" since then. Thanks to the ingenuity and fertility of the imagination of Col. Tom Campbell and the other attorneys for the defense, the star witnesses' stories become more complete and polished every time they are retold by these flies that are swarming about that $100,000 reward fund.

The Jett-White murder trial is over, for the present at least. The two prisoners were today given life sentences. They shot a man down in cold blood, and at least one person saw them do it. They failed to prove anything, while every circumstance presented by the commonwealth showed their guilt. When such unprovoked, premeditated, cowardly crimes, committed by confirmed criminals and seen by eye-witnesses, are punished by nothing more severe than life imprisonment, which may mean nothing more than a few years in the penitentiary, there is no cause for wonder that life is so unsafe in some parts of Kentucky.

The back-numbers in the municipal boards needn't try to make the public think there is not time enough this year to complete the work of paving the streets, for which bids have been asked again. There are two weeks more in August, and September and October are both good months. The work can be done in less than two months, and there are capable contractors willing to take the contract with such a guarantee. If the administration thinks it can pull the wool over the eyes of the people by claiming there is not time to complete the work this year they will get left. They ought to insist on doing the work, in self-defense if for no other reason, as they have already convinced the people that they have very little business ability and to abandon the project now would conclusively prove what has for some time past been strongly suspected.

The city will probably be unable to confiscate Contractor E. C. Terrell's check for $500 and might as well give it back to him. Mr. Terrell made a bid and gave the check as a forfeit if he failed to keep his agreement. He was willing to sign a contract embodying his bid, but the city found out that through its own ignorance and oversight this would not protect the taxpayers, and inserted an extra provision that certain things should not be paid extra for, and Mr. Terrell declined to sign it. As he did not agree to do this work that way in his bid he cannot be made to sign a contract embodying the stipulation that he do it for nothing, and the city might as well acknowledge that through its own ignorance or carelessness it could not sign the contract Mr. Terrell wanted to sign and cannot hold his money because he declined to sign the contract the city wanted to sign.

Occasionally some renegade Democrat who joined the Republican party through policy and found out that he couldn't work it leaves it with a loud hurrah, and in order to prove his sincerity makes a big to-do in the papers and tries to attract the attention of the country by his denunciation of the Republican party. Such is no doubt the case in the recent rebellion of one Dr. Guidry of Louisiana. He probably found out he would be more popular down there by becoming a Democrat, and to prove to his friends and acquaintances that he had become a Democrat he is out in a statement to the papers denouncing President Roosevelt. Of course the world at large has been eagerly awaiting the views of this distinguished politician of Louisiana on President Roosevelt, and now that it has them it may relapse into quietude again. If the disgruntled gentleman from Louisiana ever honors the Republican party with his support again President Roosevelt will no doubt consult him on every subject and try at all times hereafter to act in accordance with his wishes.

CAUTION!
This is not a gentle word—but when you think how liable you are not to purchase the only remedy universally known and a remedy that has had the largest sale of any medicine in the world since 1868 for the cure and treatment of consumption and throat and lung troubles without losing its great popularity all these years, you will be thankful we called your attention to Boschoe's German syrup. There are so many ordinary cough remedies made by druggists and others that are cheap and good for light colds perhaps, but for severe coughs, bronchitis, croup—and especially for consumption, where there is difficult expectoration and coughing during the nights and mornings, there is nothing like German Syrup. The 25 cents size has just been introduced this year. Regular size 75 cents. At all druggists. DuBois, Kolb & Co.

READY FOR INQUIRY

Attorney Lovett Gives Some Facts in Recent Investigation

Declares That All Ballot Boxes in Marshall Were Opened—Makes Proposition.

STATE COMMITTEE MAY SETTLE

Attorney John G. Lovett of Benton, Democratic nominee for commonwealth's attorney in this district, who is having a little controversy with Attorney L. K. Taylor, his defeated opponent, has forwarded to Attorney Taylor the following letter, expressing a willingness to have the controversy settled by the state central committee if satisfactory.

Attorney Lovett claims that his opponent has had the press misstate the case, and led many people to think that only one ballot box in Marshall was opened, and there may be bogus ballots in all of them, while in fact they were all opened and no ballots that were even questioned were found in any box except in Heights precinct, and he declares he does not know how they got there. He claims that if every ballot questioned by his opponents, after an inspection of them all, were given to Attorney Taylor, he would still not have enough to win.

Owing to the talk of Attorney Taylor's running on the independent ticket for the position, however, Mr. Lovett says he is willing to waive legal objections and allow the state central committee to hear and settle the case, if Mr. Taylor will abide by the decision.

His letter is as follows:
Paducah, Ky., Aug. 13, 1903.
Hon. L. K. Taylor, Paducah, Ky.

Dear Sir:—
From certain publications in the Register the inference is left that only one of the ballot boxes in Marshall county was examined. This you know is untrue. You will remember that when we met on Tuesday, August 4, to try the contest and examine the ballots in Marshall county, that every ballot box was opened, in the presence of the committee, yourself, my attorneys, and many others, and that the ballots in each of the boxes were personally inspected by you, and counted in your presence, in which counting you assisted. You also know that the ballots, in all of the boxes except at Heights, was passed on by the committee as genuine, and that you did not question the genuineness of any of the ballots at the time except those in Heights precinct. You also know that the ballots for the state and railroad commissioner's primary were in the same boxes with the judicial ballots, and it was agreed by you and the committee and my attorneys, at the time, that the law required the election officers to hold the keys to the ballot boxes for six months, awaiting a possible contest. As there was no contest as to the state or railroad commissioner's ticket those ballots had to be preserved, under the law, and that the election officers, for that reason, should receive the keys from the committee and retain them after the judicial ballots were examined and counted. You questioned the genuineness of the ballots on the 4th at Heights precinct only, and asked that the keys to that particular box be retained, so that the Heights ballots could be inspected by Mr. Leake. This was done, and Mr. Leake went to Benton on the following Thursday and examined the Heights ballots, and the ballots in the other boxes were not examined by Mr. Leake for the sole reason that you did not request the committee, or either of them, to retain the keys to any other ballot box, and the keys had been given back to the election officers by the committee, under the above understanding; and none of the election officers were requested to be present on Thursday, when Mr. Leake went out.

Your attorneys drew up a stipulation in this contest, which I agreed to, providing that all your evidence should be by deposition, and completed and filed with the committee by July 25, and all of mine by deposition, and filed with the committee by August 3; but I am willing to waive all of this, and am willing that Mr. Leake inspect every ballot in Marshall county again, all of which you have yourself examined personally, provided you extend to me the same courtesy in opening all the ballot boxes in McCracken county and examining the ballots therein.

You, in your interviews in the papers, expressed dissatisfaction as to the outcome of your contest. While I do not think that the law provides any remedy for you to appeal to any other body, still I am willing to waive legal objection and submit the contest to the state central committee, provided you will sign a stipulation in advance that you will abide by its decision, and that the state central committee retry the case as if no trial had been had before the district committee, and all the ballot boxes in the district be opened and the ballots examined and counted and passed upon by the state central committee.

I obtained the nomination free from any fraud or wrongful act, and have nothing to fear from a full, fair and impartial examination of the entire matter from beginning to end.

If you are disposed to accept my offer, advise me at once.

Very truly,
JOHN G. LOVETT.

HE IS GETTING POINTS

Scotchman Comes to Kentucky to Study Tobacco Raising.

Made a Tour of the State and Visited Paducah—Will Raise the Weed in South Africa.

HE WILL FIGHT THE TRUST

Kentucky's method of raising tobacco is so well known that a man came all the way from Scotland and spent several months in this state studying and learning how it is done, says the Courier-Journal. His name is A. P. Craig Brown, and his home is in Selkirk, Scotland. Mr. Brown, who was only recently in Paducah, was at Seelbach's last night bidding farewell to Kentucky, which he will leave today, and which he says is the best place in the world outside of Scotland.

Mr. Brown is a rich young Scot. "I am against the trust," he said last night, "and I will fight it. I simply have been in Kentucky, in several of the tobacco counties, studying the methods of planting and raising so as to learn how it is done. I will leave for South Africa in about a year and will raise Kentucky tobacco there with the purpose of selling in England, so that the British can buy tobacco which was raised in one of their provinces, instead of buying American tobacco from the trust. I will get my seed in this state. I have learned a great deal about the tobacco raising business during the time I have been here, and feel that I can raise equally as good in South Africa."

"That is a great country, and in a few years it will be producing tobacco that will be distinctive and will be the equal of any that is raised in Virginia, Tennessee or Kentucky. The industry is growing there, and the prospects are for a greater increase in the near future. We do not hope to compete with Cuban tobacco, but will raise a kind that may almost equal it. Some Kentucky tobacco is now being raised in South Africa, and it is popular with the people there, who use it in preference to any other. It is a sort of mongrel, and is not as good as the tobacco raised in this state. I hope to produce some that is as good, however, and that may really be better."

Mr. Brown will leave today for his home in Scotland, and will spend a few months there before sailing for South Africa.

POLICE COURT.

ONLY A FEW CASES ON THE DOCKET THIS MORNING.

Al Witzer, a steamboatman, tried to take the I. O. depot last night and but for the timely interference of the police would probably have done so. He was drunk and tried to run everything about the railroad. For his trouble Judge Sanders fined him $15 and costs.

James McRae was fined $1 and costs for drunkenness.

Charles Cherry, white, was dismissed on a charge of breach of the peace.

Arthur Stanley and Joseph Greif, two small boys from the Cohankus Manufacturing Co., were dismissed of the charge of breach of the peace.

pay a fine, something on the order of the "jail" at the recent carnival. Buttons will be given to each victim, with the inscription, "I have been burned."

In addition to the carnival an effort is now on foot to combine with it a regular old-fashioned county fair, under the auspices of the Hopkins County Fair association, which has had representatives here to make arrangements for leasing the fair grounds, and has virtually secured a contract. It is not deemed well for either the festival or the county fair to run in opposition, and if they can be combined, which it is believed they will be, it will be an advantage to both and will prevent competition.

Big Chief Weille stated this afternoon that September 1 active work of booming the big show will begin, and that the Red Men expect to have the biggest ever given here. All the advertising will be here by that time, and everything will be rushed for the following five weeks.

It has not been definitely decided where the carnival will be, but it will be in an enclosure. The committee is now figuring on having a merchants' display and farmers' display, one on each side of the enclosure. There will be a parade every day of the festival.

The headquarters will be selected in a few days, and the secretary's work then begins.

The feature of the festival corresponding to the "country store" of recent carnivals will be the "trading post," which will be well stocked with all kinds of goods.

Mr. Reinhard, agent for the successful company, was here early in the spring, and will leave this evening.

ONE ON OLLIE

PHILADELPHIA PAPER GIVES THIS BIT OF FICTION.

The Saturday evening Post, of Philadelphia, tells the following story this week on Congressman Ollie James, of Marion, Ky. The only thing about it to arouse skepticism as to its truthfulness is the fact that Congressman James, while he may have a pretty big belt, is an old bachelor, and has no wife to discover the missing article. Here's the story: "Ollie James, of Kentucky, will be the biggest man in the Fifty-eighth congress, physically, at least. He is large in every dimension."

"Early this summer, when it came time to put on light clothes, Mr. James rampaged around his house looking for a favorite belt. It was not to be found. James was vexed. He liked that belt."

"Three or four weeks later it came time for the member of the James household to pack a trunk. The trunk was opened and in it was the belt. "Pshaw," said James, "here is that belt I have been looking for high and low or a month."

Mrs. James looked at the belt critically. "Why," she said, "I thought that was the trunk strap."

Mr. Harry Duval, who has been a bridge foreman on the Evansville division of the I. C., was today appointed a supervisor on that division to succeed Mr. John G. Williams. Little information could be secured relative to the change, but it has been authoritatively announced that the change has been made permanently. Baseball Men Expect Something to Drop Shortly.

Paducah and Jackson Clubs Here Now for a Series of Games.

The expected shape-up in the Paducah baseball club did not take place today, and while something is anticipated in baseball circles, no one seems to know what it is. President Ben Weille stated he did not know anything for publication, and intimated that Manager Gage would remain where he is, while some of the players claim that they had received assurance that Gage would be succeeded by Pitcher Conney Best. O'Connor, who was put on the bench several days ago by Manager Gage, will be in the game again today.

The Paducah and Jackson teams arrived this morning on the Hopkinsville accommodation train, the former from Clarksville, where two out of four victories were secured, and the latter from Hopkinsville, where two games were forfeited on account of the Jackson boys refusing to play with Umpire Frank Bassett officiating. Bassett umpired fairly well here, considering that it was his first time in several years, but the Jackson boys did not think he knew much about the game, or rather that he would not give them a fair deal.

The Paducah boys played good ball, but of course had the umpire's decision against them. Wilson and Best were the victorious pitchers, while Orr and Lloyd lost. The errors that were made seemed to have been stacked up in the games Lloyd and Orr pitched. Yesterday's game was an errorless one for Paducah.

The remains of Albert Culver, who died in the railroad hospital from typhoid, were shipped yesterday to Omaha, Neb., his home, for burial. He was a foreman for a railroad contracting firm at Stiles, this county, and leaves a family.

Theatrical Notes.

Rehearsals for the benefit minstrel to be given by friends of Prof. Harry Gilbert before he leaves for Berlin, Germany, are being held regularly and the people are promised a treat. In this connection it might be said that everybody who appreciates the talents of Prof. Gilbert, and his kindness in always helping out every entertainment given here, has an opportunity to show it now. Prof. Gilbert has always given his talents fully and freely for local entertainments, and should now be accorded some recognition for it. It is hoped the house will be packed. Those to take part in the minstrel are: Edward Scott, William Owen, Emmet Bagby, William Brazelton, Wallace Weil, Robert Caldwell, Charles Hart, William Gilbert, Robert Chastine, Fred Smith, Guy Hall, Willie Minnich, Charles Mason, Charles Weille and G. Leake Thompson. The orchestra for the affair will be composed of Oscar Kahn, John G. Miller, Jr., Samuel Walker, Dr. Grogan, Prof. Deal, Chris McMahon, M. Brabie, Robert Robinson, Joseph Bonds, T. Cooney, F. Bunogles, Eddie Rollston and Robert Vint.

The latest illustrated songs, new moving pictures, Diehl's orchestra and the complete returns of the Jeffries-Corbett fight will be the program of amusement at the Casino tonight. Arrangements have been made to have special late cars run for the accommodation of all who desire to remain until the finish of the fight. Don't fail to take this in tonight. Admission 10 cents.

This week's Dramatic Mirror, of New York, contains a fine picture of Mr. Alphonse Phillips, formerly manager of La Belle park here, but now one of the most popular leading men in the East. For several weeks he has been playing the leads for the summer stock at Albany, N. Y.

The moving pictures continue to draw well, and will crowd the Casino, no doubt, before the engagement closes. Never before were such fine pictures shown in such numbers, and those who go to the park to see them may count on returning well satisfied.

of the O'Neil and Williams, which arrived here last night from Mississippi river, were shipped home today by rail. The boats will wait here for a rise.

LEAGUE MEETING—The Citizens' Good Government league will meet tonight at the Broadway Methodist church.

RECRUITS ENLISTED—The following recruits have been received at the local recruiting office in the Y. M. C. A. building and will likely be sent to Louisville Sunday: Fairfax Craig, Paducah; Thomas Dixon, Lone Oak; John T. Thompson, Paducah.

WILL BE SOMEWHAT DELAYED—The new manager of the Western Union, Mr. Roper, now of Jackson, Tenn., will not arrive to take charge of the local office tomorrow, as he will be delayed some days yet. Manager Quisenberry will be in charge until next week some time.

IS STILL AT LARGE—George Smith, alias Taylor, who escaped from the county jail several days ago, has not been located or heard from. The officers in surrounding towns and the larger cities have been notified of his escape and have been furnished with a good description of him.

NEW RAILS RECEIVED—The street car company has two car loads of new rails for its local lines. It is not known what will be done at present about laying new ones on the tracks from Broadway to Court on Third and from Court to Jefferson on Fourth, where the streets are to be paved if the city can ever succeed in making a contract.

REV. MR. SYKES AT CHRISTIAN CHURCH—Rev. John W. Sykes of Grace Episcopal church will speak at the First Christian church Sunday evening at 8 o'clock. Subject, "Tact With Men." All are cordially invited. Invitations were sent out during the week to the Endeavor societies, the Epworth League and the Baptist Young People's Union.

WORK ON NEW WALK—The city will today begin work on the board walk along Broadway beyond Fountain avenue. The walk is to be 560 feet long and six feet wide and will be protected by strong railings. It will be on the north side of the fill and ten inches higher than the street and will be a great convenience and protection to the people having occasion to pass that way. It will require about 10,000 feet of lumber and will take about two weeks' work.

TODAY'S SCHEDULE.
Jackson at Paducah.
Cairo at Hopkinsville.
Clarksville at Henderson.

THIS IS THE KIND WE LIKE.

Clarksville, Aug. 14—Yesterday's game between Paducah and Clarksville was one of the prettiest and most exciting of the season. Nickens, formerly with New Decatur, Ala., but since then with Nashville, pitched for Clarksville and Best. Paducah's crack pitcher, was in the box for Paducah. The game was a pitcher's battle, and each twirler fanned eight men. An error for Clarksville in the second inning enabled Paducah to score, and Paducah played an errorless game.

NO GAME.

Henderson, Aug. 14—There was no game between Henderson and Cairo yesterday on account of rain.

NOTES.

Clarksville has secured Pitchers Deaver and Nickens, the latter formerly with Decatur, from Nashville, and is said to have closed arrangements whereby the entire team will play the last nine games of the season at Clarksville, as the Southern league schedule expires on September 20, while the K. I. T. schedule runs until September 29.—Clarksville seems to have a fondness for allowing one pitcher to officiate in two games in one afternoon. Betts has been the artist twice on such occasions and Harris once.—Hopkinsville New Era.

The Pepsol and L. A. L. teams will play a match game Sunday morning at Wallace park. This will be the second game played by these two teams, the first resulting in a big victory for the L. A. L. team, which won with ease. The teams, however, are evenly matched, and the victory accorded to the L. A. L. boys was secured through errors in one inning. After the first inning they made no more scores. This will be a hard-fought amateur game and will no doubt be witnessed by a large crowd.

Yesterday's Louisville Times contains a picture of Robert Wallace, Cairo's left fielder, who is a Louisville boy. His record for the season is wonderful. He has knocked seventeen home runs, his fielding is 1,000 and his batting .396.

Orr and Edmunds for Paducah and Accorsini and Pettit for Jackson are the batteries for today.

The Hoppers made ten hits off Freeman yesterday and still could not beat the Red Birds.

Saturday will be ladies' day at the park.

CRUSHED BY IRON.

WES DAVIS BADLY HURT AT I. C. SHOPS—OTHER MISHAPS.

Wes Davis, colored, who is employed as a laborer in the local blacksmith shops of the I. C., was badly injured yesterday afternoon late while getting out a big piece of boiler iron from the iron stalls in the rear of the shops. The iron comes in big sheets, some being as large as the entire length and height of an engine tender, but much thicker, and about thirteen pieces of this iron fell down on him, mashing him badly and rendering him partially unconscious. He will probably recover, however.

A shattered nervous system, nearly always leads to some affection of the heart, especially where the patient's heart is weak from hereditary or other causes. Dr. Miles' Heart Cure is not only a great heart regulator, but it is a blood tonic which speedsily corrects and regulates the heart's action, enriches the blood and improves the circulation. It will build you up just as it did Mr. Crawford whose letter follows, and greatly improve your general health:

"I have been so greatly benefited by Dr. Miles' Nervine and Heart Cure that I freely recommend them as the best remedies for the diseases they are recommended to cure. When I began taking these medicines I weighed scarcely 140 pounds, my nerves were badly shattered and my heart troubled me a great deal. I had pain in my left arm and shoulder, had difficulty in sleeping on my left side, had frequent smothering spells and my heart would flutter and palpitate. I could eat scarcely any kind of food without suffering great distress, and was so restless and nervous that I slept little night or day. Now I am never bothered with my heart, my nerves are steady as a die, I sleep well, eat well and weigh 163 pounds. I am happy now and am trying to make back the money I spent for doctors who did me no good while I was ill."—T. R. CRAWFORD, Center, Texas.

Is suffering from Consumption and His Son Is Called to His Bedside.

Mr. Will Rogers received a telegram this morning announcing the serious condition of his father, Police Commissioner Pete Rogers, who is ill at Asheville, N. C., of consumption.

Commissioner Rogers left Paducah several weeks ago for his health and had apparently been improving slowly until a day or two ago, when he rapidly became worse and is now reported in a precarious condition. His son left this morning over the N. C. and St. L. road to attend his father's bedside.

ELKS MEET.

CAPT. WM. KRAUS MAKES HIS REPORT OF THE GRAND LODGE.

Capt. Wm. Kraus, who was representative of Paducah lodge at the Elks' grand lodge at Baltimore, and was exalted ruler last year, last night made his report to the lodge and needless to say it was very entertaining.

Capt. Kraus stated that Kentucky this year completely eclipsed California which has been in the habit for years of sending a carload of wine and fruit. Kentucky this year had some carloads itself, and the Kentucky headquarters were the most attractive in Baltimore. In fact it was such a popular place that police officers had to be kept at the entrance all the time to regulate the crowd and allow no more in than the log cabin could accommodate.

OUTING SPOTS IN THE NORTHWEST

There are many places in the country of the Northern Pacific, some inexpensive, others better and more expensive, where one can spend the summer days pleasantly and healthfully. Among these are Walker in the Leech lake country, and Detroit and Battle Lake in the Lake Park region in Minnesota; Eaton's ranch, near Medora, N. D.; Hunter's Hot Springs in the Yellowstone valley, and Missoula and the Bitter-root valley in Montana; Lakes Pend d'Oreille and Cour d'Alene, Idaho; North Yakima in Eastern Washington, and Green River Hot Springs in the Cascades; Tacoma, Seattle, Port Townsend, Port Angeles and Victoria on Puget Sound, and many places along the Columbia river and on the Pacific Ocean from Portland as a center.

Those east of the Mississippi who wish a decided change should go to the Rockies or the Puget Sound and Columbia river and sea coast country. We can only hint at these things here, but write us giving particulars as near as you can, and we will try to give you the needed information to enable you to find what you want. And don't forget that Yellowstone Park is the chief of all tourist shrines.

LAZARRE

MARY HARTWELL CATHERWOOD

(Based Upon the Mystery Surrounding the Fate of the Dauphin, Son of Louis XVI. and Marie Antoinette)

Copyright, 1901, by the BOWEN-MERRILL COMPANY

"What shall I do with them?"
"The old master can be your secretary, and as for the Indian, you can take him for your servant."

"A secretary and a servant for an outcast without a penny to his pouch?"
"You see the powers that order us are beginning well with you. Starting with a secretary and a servant, you may end with a full household and a court! I ought to add my poor item of tribute, and this I can do. There is a shipmaster taking cargo this month in New York bay who is a devoted royalist, a Breton sailor. For a letter from me he will carry you and your suit to the other side of the world, but you will have to land in his port."

"And what will the charges be?"
"Nothing except gratitude if I put the case as strongly to him as I intend to do. God knows, I may be casting a foul lot for you. His ship is stanch, rigged like the Italian salt ships. But it is dirty work crossing the sea, and there is always danger of falling into the hands of pirates. Are you determined?"

I looked him in the eyes and said I was, thanking him for all his goodness to one who had so little expectation of requiting him. The sweet heartiness of an older man so far beyond myself in princely attainments and world knowledge, who could stoop to such a raw savage, took me by storm.

I asked him if he had any idea who the idiot was that we had seen in Belleguer's camp. He shook his head, re-

We compared the volumes after supper, plying that idiots were plentiful and the people who had them were sometimes glad to get rid of them.

"The dauphin crew has been very cleverly managed by—Belleguer, let us say," Louis Philippe remarked. "If you had not appeared, I should not now believe there is a dauphin."

I wanted to tell him all the thoughts tossing in my mind, but silence is sometimes better than open speech. Facing adventure, I remembered that I had never known the want of food for any length of time during my conscious life. And I had a suspicion the soft life at De Chaumont's had unstrung me for what was before me. But it lasted scarce a year, and I was built for hardship.

He turned to his table to write the shipmaster's letter. Behold, there lay a book I knew so well that I exclaimed: "Where did you get my missal?"

"Your missal, Lazarre? This is mine?"

I turned the leaves and looked at the back. It was a continuation of the prayers of the church. There were blank leaves for the inscribing of prayers, and one was written out in a good bold hand.

"His majesty Louis XVI. composed and wrote that prayer himself," said Louis Philippe. "The comfort loving priests had a fashion of dividing the missal into three or four parts, that a volume might not be so heavy to carry about in their pockets. This is the second volume. It was picked up in the Tuilleries after that palace was sacked."

I told him mine must be the preceding volume, because I did not know there was any continuation. The prayers of the church had not been my study.

"Where did you get yours, Lazarre?"

"Mme. de Ferrier gave it to me. When I saw it I remembered, as if my head were split open to show the picture, that my mother had read from that very book to me. I cannot explain it, but so it was."

"I am not surprised she believes, against Belleguer's evidence, that you are Louis of France."

"I will bring my book and show it to you."

We compared the volumes after supper, and one was the mate of the other.

My master was so tired that I put him early to bed and then sat talking nearly all night with the gracious gentleman to whom I felt bound by gratitude and by blood.

view remained in my thoughts when half the distance to Paris was traversed.

I could shut my eyes and see it as I lay on the straw in a posthouse stable. A square hole in the front of the grenier gave upon the landscape. Even respectable houses in that part of the country were then built with few or no windows, but delicious masses of grayness they were, roofed with thick and overhanging thatch.

I looked out of the grenier window upon the highroad and upon the June sun in the act of setting, for we had supped and gone early to rest after a hard day. Post horses were stamping underneath, all ready for some noble count who intended to make another stage of his journey before nightfall.

Small obtrusive cares, such as the desire that my shoes should last well into Paris, mingled with joy in the smell of the earth at sunset and the looking forward to seeing Mme. de Ferrier again. I wrapped myself every night in the conviction that I should see her and more freely than I had ever seen her in America.

There was a noise of horses galloping, and the expected noble count arrived, being no other than De Chaumont with his post coaches. He stepped out of the first, and Ernestine stepped out of the second, carrying Paul. She took him to his mother. The door flew open, and the woman I adored received her child and walked back and forth with him. Annabel leaned out while the horses were changed. I saw Miss Chantry, and my heart misgave me, remembering her brother's prolonged lament at separation from her.

He was, I trusted, already shut into one of those public beds which are like cupboards, for the day had begun for us at 3 of the morning. But if he chose to show himself and fall upon De Chaumont for luxurious conveyance to Paris I was determined that Skenedonk and I should not appear. I wronged my poor master, who told me afterward he watched through a crack of the cupboard bed with his heart in his mouth.

The pause was a very short one, for horses are soon changed. Mme. de Ferrier threw a searching eye over the landscape. It was a mercy she did not see the hole in the grenier through which I devoured her, daring for the first time to call her secretly Eagle—the name that De Chaumont used with common freedom! And how strange is this—that one woman should be to a man the sum of things! And what was her charm I could not tell, for I began to understand there were many beautiful women in the world, of all favors, and shapely perhaps as the one of my love. Only her I found drawing the soul out of my body, and none of the others did more than please the eye like pictures.

The carriages were gone with sun and it was no wonder all fell gray over the world.

De Chaumont had sailed behind us and he would be in Paris long before us.

I had first felt some uneasiness and dread of being arrested on our journey, though our Breton captain obtained for us at Dieppe, on his own pledge, a kind of substitute for passports. We were a marked party by reason of the doctor's lameness and Skenedonk's appearance. The Oncida during his former sojourn in France had been encouraged to preserve the novelty of his Indian dress. As I had nothing to give him in its place, it did not become me to find fault. And he would have been more conspicuous with a cocked hat on his bare red scalp and knee breeches instead of buckskins. Peasants ran out to look at him, and in return we looked at them with a good will.

We reached the very barriers of Paris, however, without falling into trouble. And in the streets were so many men of so many nations that Skenedonk's attire seemed no more bizarre than the turbans of the east or the white burnoose of the Arab.

It was here that Skenedonk took his role as guide. He took a bee line upon his old tracks, and when the place was sighted we entered a small court, where a gruff man, called a congerge, having a dirty kerchief around his head, received us doubtfully. He was not the congerge of Skenedonk's day. We showed him the coin and Dr. Chantry sat down in his chair and looked at him with such contempt that his respect increased.

The house was clean, and all the stairs we climbed to the roof were well scoured. My poor master stretched himself on a bed by the stooping wall. We paid for our lodgings, three commodious rooms, though in the mansard, my secretary dragging himself to sit erect with groans and record the increasing debt of myself and my servant.

"Come, Skenedonk," I then said. "Let us go down to the earth and buy something that Dr. Chantry can eat."

We got a loaf of bread as long as a staff, a pat of butter in a leaf and a bottle of wine. My servant, though unused to squaw labor, took on himself the portage of our goods, and I pushed from street to street, keenly pleased with the novelty, which held somewhere in its volatile ether the person of Mme. de Ferrier.

Skenedonk blazed our track with his observant eye, and we told ourselves we were searching for Dr. Chantry's beef. Being the unburdened hunter, I undertook to scan cross places and so came unexpectedly upon the Rue St. Antoine, as a man told me it was called, and a great hurrahing that filled the mouths of a crowd blocking the thoroughfare.

"Long live the emperor!" they shouted.

The man who told me the name of the street, a baker all in white, with his tray upon his head, objected contemptuously.

"The emperor is not in Paris. He is in Boulogne."

"You never know where he is—he is here, there, everywhere!" declared another workman in a long dark garment like a hunting shirt on the outside of his small clothes.

"Long live the emperor! Long live the emperor!"

I pushed forward as two or three heavy coaches checked their headlong speed and officers parted the crowd.

"There he is!" admitted the baker behind me. Something struck me in the side, and there was Belleguer, the potter, a man I thought beyond the seas in America. His head as I saw at that moment put the emperor's head out of my mind. He had a knife, and though he had used the handle, I foolishly caught it and took it from him. With all his strength he then pushed me so that I staggered against the wheel of a coach.

We were a marked party.

"Assassin!" he screamed, and then Paris fell around my ears.

If anybody had seen his act, nobody refrained from joining in the cry: "Assassin! Assassin! To the lamp post with him!"

I stood stupefied and astonished as an owl blinking in the sunshine, and two guards held my collar. The coaches lashed away, carrying the man of destiny—as I have since been told he called himself—as rapidly as possible, leaving the victim of destiny to be bayed at by that many headed dog, the mongrel populace of Paris.

CHAPTER XII.

ONE glimpse of Skenedonk I caught while we marched along Rue St. Antoine, the gendarmes protecting me from the crowd. He thought I was going to the scaffold, where many a strapping fellow had gone in the Paris of his youth, and fought to reach me, laying about him with his loaf of bread. Skenedonk would certainly trail me and find a way to be of use unless he broke into trouble as readily as I had done.

My guards crossed the river in the neighborhood of palaces and came by many windings to a huge pile rearing its back near a garden place, and there I was turned over to jailers and darkness. The entrance was unwholesome. A man at a table opened a tome which might have contained all the names in Paris. He dipped his quill and wrote by candlelight.

"Political offender or common criminal?" he inquired.

"Political offender," the officer answered.

"What is he charged with?"

"Trying to assassinate the emperor in his post-chaise."

"La, la, la!" the recorder grunted. "Another attempt! And gunpowder put in the street to blow the emperor up only last week. Good luck attends him—only a few windows broken and some common people killed. Taken in the act, was this fellow?"

"With the knife in his hand."

"What name?" the recorder inquired. I had thought on the answer and told him merely that my name was Williams.

"Eh, bien, M. Veeleum. Take him to the east side among the political offenders," said the master jailer to an assistant or turnkey.

"But it's full," responded the turnkey.

"Shove him in some place."

They searched me, and the turnkey lighted another candle. The meagerness of my outfit was beneath remark. When he had led me up a flight of stone steps he paused and inquired:

"Have you any money?"

"No."

"So much the worse for you."

"What is the name of this prison?" I asked.

"Ste. Pelagie," he answered. "If you have no money and expect to eat here, you better give me some trinket to sell for you."

"I have no trinkets to give you."

He laughed.

"Your shirt or breeches will do."

"Are men shut up here to starve?"

The jailer shrugged.

"The bread is very bad, and the beans too hard to eat. We do not furnish the rations; it is not our fault. The rule here is nothing buys nothing. But sleep in your breeches while you can. You will soon be ready enough to eat them."

I was ready enough to eat them then, but forebore to let them know it. The whole place was damp and foul. We passed along a corridor less than four feet wide, and he unlocked a cell from which a revolting odor came. There was no light except what strained through a loophole under the ceiling. He turned the key upon me, and I held my nose. Oh, for a deep draught of the wilderness!

There seemed to be an iron bed at one side, with a heap of rags on top. I resolved to stand up all night before trusting myself to that couch. The cell was soon explored. Two strides in each direction measured it. The stone walls were marked or cut with names I could dimly see.

I chose one of the two corners not occupied by the ill odored bed, sat down and fell asleep, dropping my cares. A grating of the lock disturbed me. The jailer pushed a jug of water into the room and replaced the bolts.

Afterward, I do not remember anything except that the stone was not warm and my stomach craved, until a groan in my ear stabbed sleep. I sat up, awake in every nerve. There was nobody in the cell with me. Perhaps the groan had come from a neighboring prisoner.

Then a faint stir of covering could be heard upon the bed.

I rose and pressed as far as I could into my corner. No beast of the wilderness ever had such terror for me as the unknown thing that had been my cell mate half a night without my knowledge.

Was a vampire—a demon—a witch—a ghost locked in there with me?

It moaned again, so faintly that compassion instantly got the better of superstition.

"Who is there?" I demanded, as if the knowledge of a name would cure terror of the suffering thing naming itself.

I got no answer and, taking my resolution in hand, moved toward the bed, determined to know what housed with me. The jug of water stood in the way and I lifted it with instinctive answer to the groan.

The creature heard the splash and I knew by its mutter what it wanted. I poured water on my handkerchief and batted the face. That would have been my first desire in extreme moments. The poor wretch gave a reviving moan, so I felt emboldened to steady the jug and let drop by drop gurgles down its throat.

Forgetting the horror of the bed, I sat there, repeating at intervals this poor ministrations until the porthole again dawned and blackness became the twilight of day.

My cell mate could not see me. I doubt if he ever knew that a hand gave him water. His eyes were meaningless and he was so gaunt that his body scarcely made a ridge on the bed.

Some beans and mouldy bread were put in for my rations. The turnkey asked me how I intended to wash myself without basin or ewer or towels, and inquired further if he could be of service in disposing of my shirt or breeches.

"What ails this man?"

He shrugged, and said the prisoner had been wasting with fever.

"Who is he?"

"A journalist, or poet, or some miserable cannibal of that sort. He will soon be out of your way." Our guard craned over to look at him. "Oui—da! He is a dying man! A priest must be sent to him soon. I remember he demanded one several days ago."

But that day and another dragged through before the priest appeared.

It was night by the loophole when our turnkey threw the door open. I heard the priest and his sacristan joking in the corridor before they entered, carrying their sacred parcels. The priest was a doddering old fellow, almost deaf, for the turnkey shouted at his ear, and dim of sight, for he stooped close to look at the dying man, who was beyond confession.

"Bring us something for a temporary altar," he commanded the turnkey, who stood candle in hand.

The turnkey gave his light to the sacristan, and, taking care to lock us in, hurried to obey.

I measured the lank, ill strung assistant, more an overgrown boy than a man of brawn, but expanded around his upper part by the fullness of a short white surplice. He had a face cheerful to silliness.

The turnkey brought a board supported by crosspieces, and withdrew, taking his own candle, as soon as the church's tapers were lighted.

The sacristan placed the temporary altar beside the foot of the bed, arrayed it, and recited the Confiteor.

Then the priest mumbled the Miserere and Indulgentiam. I heard and saw with exquisite keenness, yet I was thinking, "If I do not get out of here he will have to say those words over me."

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

A WORM KILLER.

J. A. J. Montgomery, Puxico, Wayne county, Mo., writes: "I have little twin girls, who have been bothered with worms all their lives. I tried everything to relieve them, which failed until I used White's Cream Vermifuge; the first two doses brought four worms from one of them; the next two doses, twelve, one of them measuring twelve inches; the other child was only relieved of four worms. It is a most excellent medicine." White's Cream Vermifuge is good for children. It not only destroys worms, it helps the child to perfect growth, wards off sickness.

BIG RAINFALL

Nearly an Inch and a Half Fell in Twenty-four Hours.

Several Hard But Beneficial Showers—Lightning Does Damage.

The rainfall during the past twenty-four hours was something unusual for this season of the year in Kentucky. In this section, as shown by the official report, it has been 1.40 inches. The first came up yesterday afternoon shortly after 4 o'clock, and was quite heavy, and accompanied by rain, thunder and lightning.

This morning about 2 o'clock there was another thunder storm, resulting in another heavy downpour.

The rain has no doubt done a great deal of good, but reports from the country are that it may also have been so heavy in places as to do damage.

A bolt of lightning struck the tower of the northwest corner of St. Francis de Sales Catholic church, at Sixth and Broadway, at about 6:30 o'clock.

The tower was not damaged except that a small piece of wood was split for one corner, but it is hardly perceptible.

Several persons in that section of the city felt the shock, however, and saw the flash. All of the telephones of the East Tennessee Telephone company in the Columbia and Leech buildings, just below the church in the same block, were burned out. Dr. Vernon Blythe, who was at the telephone in Dr. H. H. Duley's office in the Leech building at the time of the flash, was knocked to the floor, but was uninjured.

A great many physicians have offices in these buildings, and were put to considerable inconvenience by the temporary loss of their telephones and linemen were kept very busy this morning putting them in order.

NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNERS AND TENANTS.

Now is the time to have your service connections put in if you expect to heat your building by steam in the future on the line of the new brick streets, as it will be impossible to have them put in after they commence to do the work. Don't wait too long, but see our superintendent.

FORMER RESIDENT DEAD.

MRS. CORA BLACKWELL WILLIAMS DIES IN NEW YORK STATE.

Relatives today received news of the death of Mrs. Cora Blackwell Williams at Seneca Lake, New York, from lung trouble. The deceased resided many years in Paducah and attended school here. She was formerly Miss Cora Blackwell, and was an eloquent list of ability, leaving Paducah a number of years ago for Clarksville. She was married several years ago and was in New York for her health. She was a niece of Mr. Richard Holland, of West Trimble street, who raised her, and was popular with all who knew her. She had a lovable disposition, was attractive and bright, and her death will bring sorrow to many hearts.

She leaves a husband and three-months-old babe. The remain will be taken to Clarksville, Tenn., and buried there Sunday.

THE PRACTICAL WAY.

"I understand that you have been experimenting with a view to discovering the philosopher's stone," said the boyhood friend.

"Yes," said the intellectual man. "If I discover it I shall become rich."

"But what's the use of waiting so long? Why don't you get stone straight from the quarry and get rich on paving and building contracts the same as I did?"—Washington Star.
